

Lesson Ideas For Alberts Medicine Chest

Think about your personal objects and what stories they tell about you and your life. How you could present an object, with supporting text as if it is on display in a museum?	Write a diary entry as if you are Prince Albert. Consider what you know about his medications and illnesses at the time.	Research the ivory trade and design a poster or even a campaign to raise awareness about this issue.	Think about issues that mean something to you and create ways that you could raise awareness of those issues	What can you learn about where the products you use come from? Can you trace the journey of some of the items you use regularly e.g. fruit, sugar, chocolate? How do Fairtrade products support positive change?
Can you make an observational study of a plant or flower? Look at examples of botanical illustrations and try to make your drawing or painting look like it is from the victorian era.	Look at examples of advertising and analyse the ways that companies get the attention of customers and use images and words to influence us.			